

Work with an award-winning Master Navajo Weaver

Navajo Weaving Workshop

November 13, 14, 15, 20, 21, and 22, 2009
10:00AM - 4:00PM

University of Colorado Museum of Natural History

Refresh your spirit and creativity with the art of Navajo weaving during this six-class series. Beginning students will have the opportunity to learn from Master Navajo Weaver, Lynda Teller Pete. Lynda, a 5th generation Navajo weaver has garnered two First Place Blue Ribbons at the Santa Fe Indian Market for her tapestries. While instructing and demonstrating, Lynda will share personal stories and experiences. The $375 fee covers the six classes and all materials: participants will start with a pre-warped loom. Payment will be made to Lynda on the first day of class. Call (303) 492-3396 to register, space is limited.
